KEY-NOTE SPEAKERS

We are proud to present our key-note speakers for the conference.

VICTOR M. MONTORI
Victor M. Montori is Professor of Medicine at the Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minnesota, USA. Dr. Montori is currently a principal investigator of the Knowledge and Encounter Research (KER) Unit, a multidisciplinary group of researchers focused on translating the best available research evidence into clinical practice through evidence synthesis and through enhancements in the patient-clinician encounter.

Dr. Montori is a recognized teacher of evidence-based medicine, promoting the ideals of incorporating the best available research evidence, the patient context, and the patient values and preferences in making clinical decisions. He promotes an approach to research and practice that reclaims a commitment to the patient, promoting a patient revolution.

CORNELIA M. RULAND
Cornelia M. Ruland, RN, PhD is a Professor at the Department of Medicine, University of Oslo, and Department Head of the Center for Shared Decision Making and Collaborative Care Research at Oslo University Hospital, Norway.

Her main program of research is devoted to developing and testing informatics tools for patient-provider communication, shared decision making, illness self-management and patient centered collaborative care improve patient care quality and patient outcomes.

BRIAN HAYNES
Professor Brian Haynes is an internist and clinical epidemiologist. He is Professor of Clinical Epidemiology and Biostatistics and Professor of Medicine at McMaster University in Hamilton, Ontario, Canada and founded the Health Information Research Unit there in 1987. His main interests are in the reliable retrieval, communication, dissemination and uptake of health care research that has been validated in sound clinical trials and observational studies.

His early research included development and testing of interventions to help patients follow recommendations for medical care. He is one of the founders of Evidence-Based Medicine (along with David Sackett, Peter Tugwell, Gordon Guyatt, and Deborah Cook) and led a group that proposed and initiated more informative abstracts (“structured abstracts”) for clinical journals.

He pioneered the development and deployment of direct use by clinicians of Medline and other bibliographic resources, and search filters for bibliographic databases to improve the yield of clinically relevant, scientifically sound articles. He created the McMaster Premium Literature Service (McMaster PLUS) which feeds critically appraised, clinically rated new studies and reviews to many publications and evidence services, for example, Evidence Updates, a free service sponsored by the BMJ Publishing Group.
SIGNE FLOTTORP

Professor Signe Flottorp is a senior researcher at the Norwegian Knowledge Centre for the Health Services in Oslo and acting consultant at the department of medicine, Inlandet Hospital Trust-Gjøvik, Norway.

Her main research interest is to identify ways to support patients, practitioners and policy makers making well informed decisions. Signe has been a member of the GRADE working group from the start. She is now actively involved in the EU funded projects DECIDE (Developing and Evaluating Communication Strategies to Support Informed Decisions and Practice Based on Evidence) and TICD (Tailored Implementation for Chronic Diseases). Signe is the co-author of several reviews for the Effective Practice and Organisation of Care (EPOC) Group of the Cochrane Collaboration, along with other reviews and papers in this field.
MAGNE NYLENNA
Magne Nylenna MD, PhD is Director of the Norwegian Knowledge Centre for the Health Services, Editor-in-Chief of The Norwegian Electronic Health Library, and Vice Chair of the Cochrane Library, Oversight Committee.

Nylenna is Professor of Community Medicine at the University of Oslo and The Norwegian University of Technology and Science, Trondheim, Norway. Professor Nylenna is also an elected member of The Royal Norwegian Society of Sciences and Letters, Trondheim.

Professor Nylenna is former editor-in-chief of The Journal of the Norwegian Medical Association (1987-2001), was a member of the International Committee of Medical Journal Editors (the Vancouver Group) (1987–2001), and Secretary General of the Norwegian Medical Association (2002-2003). He was Chairman of the Membership Committee of the World Association of Medical Editors (WAME) from 2007 to 2011, Council member of the European Association of Science Editors (EASE) (1997-1999 and 2003-2006), and Vice President of EASE from 2000 to 2003.

HANS LUND
Hans Lund graduated as a physiotherapist in 1982. Since the mid-1990s he has been actively involved in the education and promotion of evidence-based practices. He has also participated in developing clinical guidelines in Denmark, Sweden and at a European level.

He is currently working at the University of Southern Denmark as a lecturer, PhD and supervisor and as a Professor at the Center of Evidence-Based Practice at Bergen University College. He is also in charge of the research group SEARCH (Synthesis of Evidence and Research) at the University of Southern Denmark which focuses on publishing systematic overview articles especially on research related to musculoskeletal problems.
TUESDAY 3 FEBRUARY

Chair: Associate Professor Hans Lund, University of Southern Denmark, Professor II, Bergen University College, Denmark.
